Subject: Manufacturer's CAGE Code

As a valued supplier to Lockheed Martin Aircraft & Logistics Centers (LMALC), it is important to us to keep you informed of any changes in our requirements. On September 25, 2006, LMALC will be requiring identification of the manufacturer of the products that your company currently provides. The flow-down of this requirement will be in Quality Clause C099. This new requirement is a continuation of current requirements of full traceability and will be as follows:

Manufacturer's Commercial and Government Entity (CAGE) Code:

Seller is to provide Manufacturer's Commercial and Government Entity (CAGE) Code for each item. The CAGE code is to be legibly recorded on the Seller's documentation (e.g., shipper or certification). If the manufacturer does not have a CAGE code, this will be annotated on the documentation.

Through the requirements of C099, LMALC will now be able to immediately identify products that may be of questionable integrity due to debarment or quality alerts. In order to most efficiently get this information into our system, your company will be required to include the manufacturer's CAGE code on the bar code identification tag. Bar code requirements are specified per clause M015. In the past, LMALC's receiving inspection has not been rejecting product received without bar coding identification. However, this will no longer be the case and product received requiring bar code identification per M015 that is not bar coded will be rejected.
